on New Year's eve a select company Assembled at the house of Jeanue to partake of a savory feast. The child was horribly butchered, carved up, and the flesh placed in wooden dishes. After various ceremonials, the flesh was cooked with Congo beans, and the head was put into a pot with yams to make some soup. One of the women present, urged by the fearful appetite of a cannibal, cut from the child's palm a piece of flesh and ate it thought that the mother had been really ignorant of the fate reserved for her child. He replied: "We have not thought proper to press the inquiry too closely, for tear that we should discover that she partook of the feast; we require her testimony at the trial." After a pause, he added: "If full justice were done, there would be fifty on those benches instead of eight." During the trial, proofs were renewed that the trial, proofs were renewed that the devotees of Vaudoux worship associate it vailing corruption, the dearth of religion among the sectaries of the Vaudoux, and the opposition which he met with in what in Hayti is called civilized society. The Spanish Minister reported to his Government the case of an unknown youth of about twenty years, found dead in the streets of Port-au-Prince, his heart pierced by a weapon attached to which was a thin, hollow cane. It was supposed that he was assassinated in order to suck his blood. The power of the Vaudoux priests, according to the report made by the Spanish minister, Mr. Alvarez, was something tremendous in its influence on the people." They produce death—appa-rent, slow or instantaneous; madness, paralysis, impotence, idiocy, riches or poverty, according to their will. # 2 % If be doubted that these individuals, withont even common sense, can understand so thoroughly the properties of herbs and their combinations, so as to be able to apply them to the injury of their fellow creatures, I can only say that tradition is a great book, and that they receive these instructions as a sacred deposit from one generation to another, with the further advantage that in the hills and mountains of this island grow in abundance similar herbs to those which in Africa they em-religion, there is another phase—canni-balism practiced for the sake of the food which the slaughtering of human beings affords to a vile section of the community. A lady, the widow of a missionary, forced to stay in the interior on account of civil war in the surrounding districts, related some horrible incidents of her own knowledge. She declared that human sacrifices were constant; that human flesh openly sold in the market. A high gov-ernment official told Sir Spencer the following: A man traveling with his wife ALL POINTS EAST. was obliged to seek shelter in a cottage on account of a storm. The latter was ill and becoming worse, the man went to seek help, leaving his wife with the occupants, two men and a woman. It was a long time before he could find any one, and on his return his wife was gone. They told him she had followed him, becoming uneasy at his long absence. He rode away, and induced the police to follow him: the three inmates were arrested, and the body of the woman, already dismembered, was found in a cask in an outhouse, covered with a thick layer of salt. The only punishment the assassins received was that administered assassins received was that administered by the clubs of the police as they were taken to prison. The practice of mid-wives slaying children to eat them is an old one in Hayti. As late as 1878 two women were arrested in a hut near Port-au-Prince, caught eating the raw flesh of a child. It was found that all the blood had been sucked from the back and was had been sucked from the body, and part of the flesh had been salted down for future use. A woman arrested for cannibal ism was asked by a priest: "How could you eat the flesh of your own children?" She answered coolly, "And who has a better right?" There is in Hayti a class of human monsters called loup garous, who make it a practice to prowl about lonely houses at night to carry off the children. They are employed by the papalois to secure children for sacrifice in se the neighborhood does not furnish a suitable subject, and they are naturally the bugbears of the country. In closing Salt Lake City, Utah. the frightful record, Sir Spencer says that except during one year of Geffrard's presidency, no government has ever cared resolutely to grapple with the evil. If they have not encouraged it they have ignored it, in order not to lose the favor

> THE FIRST BAR OF BULLION. Hale & Norcross Managers Indulge in a Jolly Christen-ing Festival.

A merry party assembled at the Savage and Hale & Norcross office in this city last fevening to attend the christening of the first bar of bullion produced from the ore taken from the winze station on the 3000-level of the Hale & Norcross mine, and the first bullion that has ever been taken from any mine at that depth The gentlemen present were President H. M. Levy, Archie Borland, Joe Marks Sol. Jacobs, Superintendent Keating and a few others. On entering the room the guests were shown the bar resting on a bed of flowers on a center table. On top of the bar was the following letter:

Superintendent's Office, Hale & Nonchoss S. M. Co., Vieginia, Nev., July 2, 1885.

VERGENIA, Nev., July 2, 1885.

H. M. Levy, A. Borland, and the friends of the Hale & Norcross mine: The first bar of bullion ever taken from the $0.00-foot level of the Comstock lode—the first fruit of the long-sought-for bonanza. The result of hope, energy and pluck—with the compliments of the superintendent.

P.S.—"They" said ore could not live in the deep levels of the great old lode. The above result proves "they" lied. "They say many unfavorable things now against the mine in which time will also show "they" lied.

After reading the latter they proceeded.

After reading the letter they proceeded to examine the bar and ascertain its value, and found it to be worth $2,712, in the proportion of a little less than one-FITTED UP THROUGHOUT IN FIRST CLASS third gold to two-thirds silver. Sundry bottles of wine were opened and disposed of and a right pleasant evening was spent by the guests in discussing the future bright prospects of the mine.—Virginia
